

the WOMEN'S FOUNDATION of CALIFORNIA

Economic Development and Justice Donor Circle 2008-2009 Grant Partners

The Economic Development and Justice Donor Circle (EDJe) promotes the economic independence and security of low-income women in California. Since its inception in 1999, members of EDJe have invested more than $2.5 million in organizations engaged in job creation and training, access to higher education, enterprise development, asset development and policy advocacy promoting childcare access and domestic worker rights.

California Partnership

Los Angeles

$15,000

Economic Development and Justice Donor Circle

<http://www.california-partnership.org/>

General operating support to continue and expand organizing campaigns with low-income women and families to fight to protect government safety net programs in California.

California Child Care Resource and Referral Network

San Francisco

$9,000

Economic Development and Justice Donor Circle

<http://www.california-partnership.org/>

The funds will be used to strengthen, maintain, and expand recruitment, leadership development work, and advocacy action in seventeen existing Parent Voices chapters in order to rapidly respond to state budget cuts and federal stimulus funding opportunities.

LIFETIME

$9,000

Economic Development and Justice Donor Circle

<http://www.geds-to-phds.org/>

To support programming for low-income mothers and their children to participate in the state budget process, and to promote policy gains move families off welfare - and out of poverty.